Anne studied at Croydon and Hammersmith College of Art. The foundation of her working practice is drawing and the expression of colour. Life drawing was her first love and Anne works directly from the models, painting in watercolour, oil, pastels and acrylic, also using her drawings as the basis for more abstract work.

Anne has been teaching art since 1975 (apart from a break to get a haircut and a proper job as a software engineer in London and raise a family).

She has been giving weekly classes and running workshops in Hampshire for the last six years. Her work has been selected for RWA the SWA and won several awards while exhibiting with local Art Clubs

Anne's work is in collections in Europe and Asia.

Anne is represented by The Coastal Gallery, Lymington
